Glacier National Park

Glacier National Park is an American national park located in northwestern Montana, on the Canada–United States border, adjacent to the Canadian provinces of Alberta and British Columbia. The park encompasses more than 1 million acres and includes parts of two mountain ranges, more than 130 named lakes, more than 1,000 different species of plants, and hundreds of species of animals. This vast pristine ecosystem is the centerpiece of what has been referred to as the "Crown of the Continent Ecosystem," a region of protected land encompassing 16,000 square miles.

At the edge of Glacier National Park in the Northern Rocky Mountains is a vibrant town built around a shared appreciation of the wild. From the mountains rich with forests, lakes and rivers to the welcoming downtown, this is a place worth exploring and protecting for all those who love it.

Lakeside & Somers

The cozy communities of Lakeside and Somers are nestled on the northwest shores of beautiful Flathead Lake and at the base of Blacktail Mountain in our great state of Montana. The two distinct towns are neighbors on the bay and are located 8 miles south of Kalispell. Our communities are ideal destinations for both locals and visitors alike. Our four beautiful seasons in Lakeside and Somers offer something for everyone, from skiing the slopes of Blacktail Mountain to sailing and boating majestic Flathead Lake. While visiting in our area, you can find local information and travel guides at our kiosk located within the West Shore Community Library lobby in Lakeside at 7191 US Hwy 93 S, conveniently located in the heart of Volunteer Park.
